Headline:
Thursday, a fine, sunny day, and feeling pleasantly warm.

Today:
A fine and dry day in prospect with long sunny spells. After a cold start temperatures will recover to give a pleasantly warm feeling afternoon, along with mainly light winds. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Long clear spells overnight, and with generally light winds another chilly night with a widespread ground frost, and a slight air frost in places. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Friday:
Another fine, dry day with long sunny spells. Feeling warm with afternoon temperatures slightly higher than on Thursday. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Occasionally cloudier over the weekend, especially near the coast, but still with sunny spells. Becoming cooler by day, and still chilly overnight. Some rain or showers possible by Monday.
